CAPTAIN RIPS SHROUD FROM NAVAL DISASTER!

State Auto Chief Defends 'Bunk' Law

WILL H. MARSH ANSWERS CRITICS OF NEW MOTOR VEHICLE LEGISLATION

Validity Of Contested Sections Will Be Established by Court Decision, Declares California Department Head

By GIL A. COWAN

WILL H. MARSH, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles, State of California, with offices in Sacramento, takes exception to the ideas expressed by Police Judge F. H. Lowe of Glendale that the new motor vehicle law is "the bunk." In a written interview with the writer today, Mr. Marsh concludes:

"Despite the objections of some critics, I firmly believe that there is no question but the enforcement of all provisions will be found easy, and the validity of various sections, which have been questioned, will be established whenever it may appear desirable to test the same in courts.

"I can see no reason for the apprehension expressed by certain critics, and I can see no possible foundation for a call for a special session of the legislature for the purpose of considering this subject."

Judge Lowe, as well as city attorneys attending the Pacific League of Municipalities session at San Diego last week, had hinted that such recourse might be taken to replace the "speed traps," outlawed by the new law yet maintained by Pasadena and elsewhere, it is reported.

Tells of Legislators' Work

Mr. Marsh states that "if there be any reason for a special session for the consideration of the new motor vehicle legislation, the same is not apparent to me."

"The Breed bill," he continues, "was placed before the legislature after exhaustive conferences, delving into all phases of motor vehicle legislation, and covering, so far as possible, all angles of the industry which would be affected by its enactment. More thought was placed on this particular measure than on any bill presented or passed by the last session of the legislature.

Measure Is Progressive

"The fact that some few provisions may not appeal to certan interests does not necessarily mean that the bill is not a good one. The measure contains many advanced ideas assembled from conferences and conventions of those interested in the automotive industry, enforcement of law and

JUDGE DRAWS AUTOIST'S RETORT

Application of Old Statute Ridiculous, Assertion of Local Taxpayer

RESPONDING to Police Judge F. H. Lowe's assertion that the present motor vehicle law is "the bunk," a "Law Abiding Taxpayer" and subscriber to The Glendale Evening News writes as follows:

"There are two sides to every story. We notice you have given considerable space to a one-sided discussion of the new motor law. Why place so much stress upon criticism of this law by a judge, or judges?

Gives Personal Views

"Because a man happens to be a police judge, temporarily, is no reason why his opinion is any better than the opinion of any other man who may have occupied, or who may in the future occupy, the same position.

"In my opinion the application of the old law was quite as ridiculous as the provisions of the new. I do not believe in a menace to life and property. Neither do I believe—and every law-abiding citizen thinks the same—that a man who has a legitimate reason for haste should be made to suffer, by fine or imprisonment, for exceeding the legal limit or that allowed by instructions to a police department, but there was no discrimination between this sort of a violator and the "tough guy," the "booze loaded maniac" or the "show-off fellow" who are the real menace.

Criticise Officers

"Many motorcycle officers were arrogant. And many judges were insulting. That very naturally caused resentment on the part of law-abiding citizens and business men who pay taxes for the salaries of these same peace officers who are employed for the REASONABLE enforcement of the law.

"Some fellow hurrying home from work, maybe no one in sight and no danger of hurting anybody or anything, goes through a speed trap. Mr. Copper says, 'Tell it to the judge.' Mr. Judge says, 'Our minimum fine for speeding is $15 or fifteen days.'

"The 'poor cuss' possibly is just able to pay expenses of his family, but has to somehow dig up this fine to increase the day's business of the particular judge.

Old Law a "Hardship"

"The old law had become a misery and a hardship upon those

WARSHIPS CRASH IN EASTERN FOG

U. S. Battleship Arkansas Rams Destroyer McFarland in Maneuvers

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Naval maneuvers in the Massachusetts bay were halted today when the battleship Arkansas rammed the bow of the destroyer McFarland. The McFarland, it was learned, was not seriously damaged and is proceeding to Boston, under the escort of the U. S. S. Sturveysant.

The remainder of the fleet is scheduled to arrive at Newport this afternoon. The accident occurred about 4 a. m. today during a heavy fog near the northern entrance to the Cape Cod canal. Early reports stated no one was injured.

The Arkansas is commanded by Captain Ridley McLean and the McFarland by Commander Harry C. Pence. The accident occurred during the night maneuvers.

Auto Club Says Revenue Higher in Traffic Court

AUTO CLUB officials appearing in Glendale police court give an entirely new angle to the motor vehicle legislation controversy. They claim more revenue accrues under the new provisions than before.

Fines in Los Angeles county courts have increased since the Breed bill went into effect, according to statistics prepared by the legal department of the Auto Club, it is reported by city officials here who discussed the subject.

It is also pointed out that the number of offenders are less, but their convictions more sure and sentences severe.

TAGS TABOO FOR MOTOR OFFENSES

New Ruling Regarding Cars With Engines Running, or Too Near Fire Plugs

Automobiles cannot be tagged for violations of the new Californiania motor vehicle act! Don't get excited. This merely means that citations must be signed by the occupant of the car. Violators of its various sections are not to be allowed to "get away" with anything.

Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, has issued instructions to all officers not to tag a car for violation of the California motor vehicle act. Instead its occupant is to be given a citation to appear in court within five days. If the car is unoccupied, it cannot be tagged.

Here's the Joker

The "joker" in this case lies in the fact that "tags" do not apply to violations of local ordinances. Motorists, who desire to take advantage of this new ruling, must be discriminating or they will find their car tagged as usual.

Cases in which an unoccupied automobile could violate the state law include the following: Parking within 15 feet of either side of a fire hydrant, motor running, parking farther than one foot from the curb and parking in a street with less than fifteen feet from the left side or the machine to the center of the street.

Judge Lowe's Views

Judge F. H. Lowe, commenting upon the situation, remarked this morning: "Under the California motor vehicle act, an arrest is not an arrest unless the person who is arrested signs a ticket to appear in court within five days. Heretofore, if an automobile were parked so that it violated the law it could be tagged and the owner would be required to appear in court."

The new mode of procedure is bound to interfere with the efficiency of the police department so far as the regulation of traffic is concerned, in the opinion of both Colonel Fraser and Judge Lowe. They call attention to the fact that officers will be obliged to watch violating automobiles until their driver returns—or else the motorists will be able to get away without difficulties in court.

Troops Quell Women Rioters in Dublin

DUBLIN, Sept. 19.—Women made a noisy demonstration today outside the Dail Eireann building on the eve of the inaugural session. Troops were called from the garrison and restored order. Soldiers will remain on guard around the building to prevent an attack by men and women republicans. The re-election of William T. Cosgrave as president of the Dail was considered certain. It was unlikely there would be any changes in the free state cabinet.

COLLEGE YOUTH HELD

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 19.—Ernie Granger, 21, of Lincoln, a student at the University of Nebraska, was served with a warrant today charging him with manslaughter in connection with the death of Carl Springer, 21, and Miss Edna Boorman, 20, both of Fremont, and prominent in university circles, as the result of an automobile accident last Saturday.

LABOR BACKS WALTON IN KLAN WAR

Oklahoma Governor's Stand Wins Federation O. K. at Convention

By W. F. SULLIVAN
For International News Service

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 19.—Supported unanimously in his determination to drive lawlessness and the Ku Klux Klan out of the state by the action of the State Federation of Labor in endorsing his stand at its convention at Henrietta, Governor J. C. Walton today "took heart" and entrenched himself more firmly in his position against "hooded justice."

Governor Walton showed not the slightest sign of backing down from his fight to eradicate "mob justice" from Oklahoma.

Klan Plans In Secret

With the state still under a blanket order of martial law, and this city and Tulsa under military guard, the "invisible government," if moving at all, was laying its plans entirely in a secret manner.

The military court investigating scores of witnesses for evidences of alleged floggings, continued its work at headquarters in the Huckins hotel. Several witnesses were to be called before the board of inquiry which is meeting behind barred doors under the strictest military guard.

The work of the military court is expected to continue for a few days yet, but no information whatever was being given out by Colonel Graves, president of the board.

Opinions Differ

A strong faction in the legislature which is attempting to meet in extraordinary session in an attempt to bring impeachment proceedings against the governor, took encouragement from the speech of Summers Hardy, former supreme court justice at Tulsa, in which he declared that the legislative bodies could convene at any time to investigate questionable acts of state officials.

From reliable sources it was learned today that messengers were being sent to various points in the state to get definite assurances from members that they are willing to meet "within the next week" at some unspecified spot. It is not definitely clear, however, whether the law permits meeting other place than the capitol, even in the capitol city.

Crisis Next Week

It is known that local members of the house have met in this city with members of the other parts of the state and claim to have the necessary number to meet and consider the governor's position. The impeachment proceedings, it is known, are being drafted, indicating that an assemblage might be attempted the early part of next week.

The ban on the Oklahoma state fair was lifted here last night by Governor Walton. Action followed a conference of city officials, civic organizations, fair directors and the military authorities.

ADVERTISING GLENDALE IN EAST

Transcontinental Trip for Electric Engine to Boost This City

TRANS - CONTINENTAL advertising for Glendale will be staged when the new engine that has been purchased for the Glendale & Montrose Railway starts for this city, following its showing at the electrical show to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., from October 8 to 12, according to the report of W. L. Twining, chairman of the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors last night.

The engine will start for its destination bearing banners measuring sixteen feet long by three wide, with the words: "I am on my way to Glendale, California—the Fastest Growing City in America," and will be accompanied by a special representative who will distribute Glendale literature at every stop.

Appropriate Banners

The cost of the banners will be $75, and this amount was appropriated to meet the expense. Mr. Twining also stated that, if it could be done without exceeding the $75 appropriation and if there were room for the words on the banners, they would also carry the news that Glendale was within the metropolitan area of the city of Los Angeles.

W. E. Hewitt stated that the Red Cross had fallen short of its quota for the relief of the Japanese by close to $1000 and he urged that the Chamber of Commerce aid the Red Cross in raising the balance as rapidly as possible.

Attorney Wende Speaks

Attorney G. H. Wende asked for the aid of the Chamber of Commerce in helping to inquire into the status of the Los Feliz district tax assessment units, of which, he said, over 200 are now pending and which have for their object, he asserted, the ultimate grab of the property.

A committee will be appointed to confer with Mr. Wende and attempt to work out some solution of the problem that will not only tend to halt the present suits but that will prevent the launching of similar actions in the future.

The decision by the state supreme court in the matter of lower fares over the Pacific Electric, as handed down last Saturday, was presented to the board by Secretary E. F. Sanders who declared that the prospect of lower fares has been definitely decided against the suburban cities that were parties to the suit.

Reports on "Chest"

Further plans for the development of the Community Chest project were laid out last night at the meeting of the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, when Dr. Warren Z. Newton, chairman of the committee that had been appointed to work out the preliminary details, sub-

SOLDIERS RUSHED TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES WITH RENEWED FURY IN NORTHERN COUNTIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Forest flames with renewed fury are being fought in several northern California counties this afternoon. Scores of laborers were assembled and 200 soldiers from the Presidio were rushed to Marin county when the blaze which has been burning in Alpine canyon on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais flamed up again.

Every effort was being made to prevent the flames passing the Alpine ridge as the valley towns of Kentfield, Larkspur and Ross will again be endangered if the fire bursts bounds.

The countryside was still aflame as far as Bolinas ridge. On this ridge the flames also burst forth anew today and Camp Taylor was reported in danger.

One hundred students of Mount Tamalpais Union school are aiding in fighting the fire and many of the fighters have been on duty thirty-six hours.

RUMORS OF DEAD IN FIRE SCOUTED

Berkeley Authorities Launch Intensive Search in Ruins of City

BERKELEY, Sept. 19.—To set at rest persistent rumors that there had been loss of life when Berkeley was ravaged by flames Monday night, an intensive search of the ruined area was started today. City authorities expressed belief that the reports were erroneous.

Insurance adjusters working on the fire claims estimated the total loss today at $10,000,000, with only $4,000,000 of this amount covered by fire insurance. A check showed 641 buildings destroyed in the two square miles that burned.

Plans for rebuilding were being actively taken up today. All of the homeless have been taken care of temporarily, and relief measures are well in hand.

Hundreds of workmen started in the burned area today to dynamite standing chimneys and other menaces left by the fire and the work of clearing up the debris is proceeding rapidly.

Fires Under Control in Northern Counties

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—The great forest and brush fires burning in twenty northern California counties were completely under control today, though a menacing situation still existed in Marin county. There the town of Fairfax was still in danger, although a change of wind early today was believed to have saved the situation.

In Sonoma county four fires of major importance were still raging. There was no loss of life when the Trinity postoffice burned, it developed today.

Thousands of fire fighters were on duty all night, although many of them were almost exhausted from the 48-hour battle with the blazes.

The fire toll to date today had mounted into the millions in the twenty counties affected.

Sonoma County Fires Are Still Smouldering

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Sept. 19.—The four big forest fires which swept Sonoma county were still smouldering today, but all under control.

Reports that two lives had been lost at Trinity were established as false today. Trinity is only a postoffice located on the Frazier ranch and has but one house which was burned. There was no loss of life.

The Boyes Springs company announced today the summer hotel there would be immediately rebuilt. The Northwestern Pacific Railroad company had a large force of men at work today rebuilding the railroad trestle destroyed there.

Golf Goods Stolen in Local Store Burglary

A gentleman burglar—that is, one who is evidently a sportsman—last night broke into an establishment at 146 South Brand boulevard, known as The Sport Shop. His loot consisted exclusively of golf supplies.

The fact that a screen had been pried off a rear window was noticed last night by Gordon D. Pippett, who is employed with Ira Herbert in the operation of a private patrol.

J. P. Andrews, manager of the store, stated this morning that the only articles taken were golf bags, golf clubs, and golf balls. He stated that it would be necessary to make an inventory before he could determine the amount of the loss.

C. E. HUTCHINSON WRITES OF SIERRAS

Glendale Naturalist to Tell About Trip in Friday Evening News

Charles E. Hutchinson, who returned Sunday, September 16, to his home at 246 North Orange street, rejoining his wife and family after a two and a half months' trip on mule-back, up through the north end of the Yosemite national park and eastward nearly to the crest of the Sierras, reports one of the most inspiring of his many annual excursions to "the land beyond wheel-ruts."

Mr. Hutchinson is a naturalist to whom such trips offer not only recreation and a temporary feast for body and soul, but who delights to study animal and plant life, together with mineralogical formations, recording his observations in diary form, for future reference.

Has Vivid Experiences

He has kindly consented to prepare an article for this Friday's edition of The Glendale Evening News, telling some of his many vivid experiences on this recent trip, which took him to the famous Water Wheels of John Muir, in Tuolomne canyon, and to the Devil's Post Pile, near Sotcher lake, known all over the world as one of the most titanic examples of crystallization ever seen.

With Mr. Hutchinson on the trip was his friend S. C. Canady, of Long Beach. They went by motor to Bass lake, where they got a pack of mules and equipment and headed up into the Yosemite, pressing close to the summit of the Sierras, then zigzagging back south and east to Mammoth lakes, where they encountered C. D. Lusby and his son, Dr. Charles R. Lusby of Glendale, with whom they camped for ten days, enjoying some excellent fishing.

Return Via Fresno

Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Canady then proceeded down to Huntington lake, crossing the Sierras again, and advanced to the south fork of King's river, from where they returned to Fresno and motored home.

Last year Mr. Hutchinson made a two months' trip to the headwaters of the two branches of the King's river, coming out by way of Piute pass.

'Father of 57' Held as Flight Is Feared

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Acting on a "tip," it is reported, that Dr. Helon B. Allen, "father of fifty-seven adopted children," and under indictment in Pittsburgh, Pa., for violation of the Mann act, planned to flee, Deputy United States Marshal Lessner took him into custody early today and lodged him in the county jail.

Dr. Allen was recently arrested and admitted to $15,000 bail after a hearing before a United States commissioner here on proceedings against his return to Pittsburgh.

DESTROYERS' WRECK DUE TO HUMAN ERRORS

Commander Did Not Rely on Compass, Gave Fatal Orders for Course

NORTH ISLAND, SAN DIEGO, Sept. 19—Despite several compass bearings from the Point Arguello radio station shortly before the crash, which showed a true position to the north of the promontory, the ill fated U. S. destroyer squadron shaped a southwestward course squarely on to the rocky point on the mistaken assumption that it had already passed Arguello and entered Santa Barbara channel, testimony of radio men on the flagship Delphy showed at the court of inquiry this morning.

W. Murphy, radio operator on watch at the time, declared he obtained bearings from the Arguello station at 8:20, sent a message asking for a reciprocal or reverse bearing, received another bearing at 8:25 and still another at 8:58, ten miles before the flagship crashed aground.

They Guessed Wrong

All three radio compass reports from the land station insisted that the squadron was to the north of the point, it was brought out.

Capt. Edward Watson, squadron commander, assisted by Capt. D. T. Hunter of the Delphy, made independent calculations, however, according to official reports, which convinced them, notwithstanding the radio compass, that the point already had been passed, and ordered the fatal change of course. Watson has should-

INCREASE SHOWN IN CHILD LABOR

Supreme Court Ruling Paves Way for Industries to Employ Thousands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Since the United States Supreme court let down the bars on child labor, the employment of children in the industrial east has increased by leaps and bounds, it was announced today by the children's bureau of the department of labor.

A survey of conditions in 40 cities, scattered all over the country, shows an increase of 36.8 per cent in the number of children working during the first six months of 1923, as compared with the record for the last six months of 1922.

Of the thirty cities surveyed, all except Washington and Minneapolis, reported increases in the numbers of 14 and 15-year-old children taking out permits to go to work.

The largest increase was in Waterbury, Conn., almost 800 per cent.

Other Connecticut cities reported increases of from 98 to 178 per cent. Other cities reporting strikingly large increases are Springfield, Mass., 215 per cent; Pittsburg, 127 per cent; San Francisco, 85 per cent; Indianapolis, 75 per cent; Birmingham, 63 per cent; Baltimore, 56 per cent; Philadelphia, 51 per cent.

In Manchester, N. H., Milwaukee, Louisville, from four to five times as many certificates were issued to children as formerly.

Clock Without Works Is Puzzling Local Savants

SHERLOCK Holmes is badly needed outside the office of J. A. Endicott, realtor, 116 South Brand boulevard, where, for several days passersby have been baffled by the large chronometer that does three eight-hour shifts every day without a murmur—and without visible works.

That clocks must have "innards" to function has hitherto been the rule, but that attached to the Endicott window is evidently above mere laws of nature.

All there is to the timepiece is a thirty-six-inch dial and two large hands, and yet it goes. It rivals the watch in your pocket. Its hands may even be whirled about this way or that, yet will in variably return to the identical hour and minute it then is.

Many are the theories Glendalians have advanced. Magnetism, sun's rays, invisible wires, even spooks, have been held accountable for the phenomenon, which is the invention of F. J. Hortsman of Chicago. As yet no one has hit on the proper explanation, says Mr. Endicott.

Milk Must Be Served In Unopened Bottle, Says Law

RESTAURANTS in Glendale must serve milk in bottles, according to F. H. Smeet, municipal milk inspector, who called attention this morning to the fact that one section of Senate bill 689, which went into effect September 15, is not generally known. This is as follows:

"When served by any hotel, boarding house, restaurant, saloon, lunch counter or other place of public entertainment, market milk shall be served in the original bottle, the cap of which shall not be removed except in the presence of the consumer; provided, however that this provision shall not apply to cream so served.

The reason for this regulation is to make sure that every patron, who orders milk in a restaurant, receives the proper amount of cream and butterfat, instead of being served milk from which the cream has been skimmed. The new rule also will prevent milk from being stored in open receptacles.

Home Wedding

A home ceremony last night, Tuesday, September 18, 1923, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Taliaferro at 359 West Garfield street, united their daughter, Miss Genevieve Taliaferro and Ira E. Cleeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cleeland of 336 Ivy street.

Only relatives and a small group of close friends witnessed the ceremony, performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. H. C. Mullen, pastor of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

The Taliaferro home was decorated with pink and white carnations and ferns.

Miss Anna Merriken, gowned in pink satin and carrying pink carnations and fern, attended Miss Taliaferro as maid of honor.

Alfred Taliaferro, brother of the bride, attended Mr. Cleeland as best man.

Miss Taliaferro wore a wedding dress of white Canton crepe, made long in most becoming style. It was designed in drapes, the skirt drape being caught at the left side with a rhinestone buckle. Instead of a veil she wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. The bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses and maiden hair fern.

After the ceremony the bridal party and guests motored to the new home on West Maple street, and later returned to the Taliaferro home for a two-course wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleeland will immediately take up their residence in their new home.

Both the young people have many friends in Glendale. The Taliaferro family have resided here for five years, and Mrs. Cleeland attended Glendale high school.

Hostess to Aid

The aid society of the Tropico Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Mrs. Perry, 417 West Cypress street, at an all-day meeting on Tuesday. The hostesses for the day were Mrs. J. M. Server, president of the society, and Mrs. Perry. The day was spent in making articles for the bazaar, which the society expect to hold in November.

The members of this society are noted for the cleverness and originality of the ideas which mark their entertainments. Recently the "stouts and slims" were featured at a luncheon. More recently the "longs and the shorts" were used as a measure to fix the scale of prices for the luncheon.

Yesterday the guests were allowed the choice of some dozen or more kinds of desserts. But upon being served each and all alike were served with nut ice cream and cake, authough a label attached informed them they were eating strawberry shortcake and watermelon or peach cobbler and rice pudding. "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet" or to paraphrase the poet who sings "Each thought another name but all sang Annie Laurie," each thought another desert but all ate ice cream and cake. About fifteen members were present.

Rebekah Lodge

There were five visitors included in the company of 500 who attended the Carnation Rebekah lodge meeting last night at the Odd Fellows' hall on West Broadway, where a business meeting was held, followed by a program and banquet celebrating the seventy-second anniversary of the founding of the Rebekah order.

During the business hour announcement was made of the dance to be given Saturday night by the Comus Sactorium, Orientals of Los Angeles, in the Glendale Odd Fellows' hall. The Carnation Rebekahs will have a box party at the dance, auctioning off luncheon boxes.

Mrs. Marjorie Pease had arranged the program for last night, and it included a reading on "Oddfellowship" by Mrs. Evelyn Hall, noble grand; a violin solo by Evangeline Quackenbush, accompanied by Mrs. Jones; a vocal solo by Mrs. Coughlin, accompanied by Mrs. Loretta Schwitters; a reading on "Odd Fellowship" by Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, past noble grand and district deputy marshal; a recitation "Rebekah," by Mrs. Rosella Strother, district deputy president.

Later the company gathered in the banquet room about tables bright with pink and green decorations. A large birthday cake occupied one corner of the room, arranged with a profusion of flowers and greenery and banners of the order. On the icing of the cake was the name of the lodge and "72" for the anniversary.

Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

The lodge drill team is to meet at 7 o'clock tonight at the hall for practice.

PRESSMEN STAND FIRM IN STRIKE

Gotham Papers Published in Composite Form With Skeleton Crews

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—With neither side inclined to yield an inch, the outlaw strike of New York's newspaper pressmen today entered its second day. "The strike is 100 per cent effective," declared David Simmons, president of Local 25 of the Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America.

"The city's newspapers are being published, in spite of the illegal action of Union No. 25," George L. Berry, international president of the union, said.

Papers Combine

Following their action in putting upon the street a combined edition of evening newspapers yesterday, publishers issued a composite edition of morning newspapers today.

Lester E. Jones, executive representative of the Newspaper Publishers' association, characterized the strike as "uncalled for."

A small force of pressmen, recruited by Berry, published the composite morning edition today, travelling from one newspaper plant to another.' At the top of Page 1 the edition bore the title lines of all of the city's ten morning newspapers. Above all was the caption, "THE COMBINED NEW YORK MORNING NEWSPAPERS." Each of the papers bore the distinctive imprint—in the make-up and general style—of the newspaper at the office where it was published.

Wires for Recruits

Berry said he had wired to local unions in other cities, notifying them of the strike against international authority, and asking that they advise him as to the number of men they could send here to man the presses.

Berry assured the publishers that the international union would assert its full power to arbitrate disputed points and keep its men working pending the outcome of negotiations for a new contract under way when the strike broke out.

ered the blame for the crash.

G. E. Tyler, signalman on the Delphy, testified that he sent out "winker" messages during the fifteen minutes his lights remained aglow, reading "we are aground."

Another Fatal Order

Murphy told of sending the "nine turns—keep clear to the westward" radio telephone message immediately after the formation leader crashed, which resulted in the trailing destroyers driving directly towards and upon the rocks.

A few minutes later, Murphy said, he flashed an order that countermanded the fatal shift. It was this corrected order that shifted the tandem formation consisting of seventeen destroyers so that after the first seven were demolished and the next four went ashore and escaped with leaking hulls, the remaining six sheered away undamaged.

Adventist Leaders Pay Last Tribute to Memory Of Elder John O. Corliss

FINAL tribute to Elder J. O. Corliss, minister of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, who died Monday at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, was paid by a large gathering of friends and relatives this morning at the Seventh-day Adventist church on North Isabel street.

The funeral services were held at 10 o'clock, with Elders W. M. Adams, R. W. Parmele, E. W. Farnsworth and J. L. McElhany officiating. Interment took place in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. The L. G. Scovern company was in charge.

History of Life

At the service at the church the following life sketch of Elder Corliss was read:

John Orr Corliss was born in Bath, Maine, December 26, 1845. His mother was descended from the Scotch Earl of Stair, and his father from the English Lord Houghton family. Before reaching the age of 5 years he was left a half-orphan by the death of his father. Being thrown so early upon his own resources, he soon developed independence of thought by which to meet the stern issues of life.

At the age of 16 years he chose a sailor's occupation. Following his seagoing apprenticeship, he enlisted for service in the Civil war, giving nearly two years to that calling. Soon after his discharge, in 1865, he learned the Sabbath truth, and felt impelled to tell the world of the joys of a genuine Christian experience.

Just then, his young wife was taken away by death, and he met, in Topsham, Maine, Elder James White and wife, who extended an invitation for him to become a member of their family in the state of Michigan. Believing this to be a call of preparation for future work, the invitation was accepted, and two years of helpful experience was there gained. In the meantime, a happy marriage was consummated with Julia A. Burgess, who was destined to be his cheerful and faithful helpmeet for the period of forty-four years.

Starts to Preach

Shortly after his marriage, Mr. Corliss started afoot for the northern part of Michigan, to engage in evangelistic work. No conference funds were then available, and he was not, himself, blessed with worldly goods. His wife, however, hired out her services to cook for a crew of sawmill hands at $2 per week, and so partially provided the necessary funds to keep him at his chosen calling. In addition to the funds supplied by his wife's labors, he did work enough in his itinerary to keep his expenses fairly well balanced.

For many years following he pursued the work of preaching in pioneer service, and as a general camp meeting laborer. During the years 1875-76 he was pioneering the work in Virginia; another year was spent in establishing the work in Colorado, and still another organizing the work in Washington, D. C. In 1865, with some others, he went to Australia, where he labored for two years, raising up churches and editing "Bible Echo," which was financed largely from his private funds. Although no Sabbath-keepers were in that field at the beginning of his labors there, yet, when, being obliged to leave it on account of insurmountable circumstances, more than 200 believers were in evidence, located in Melbourne, Ballarat, Adelaide and other points.

Back to Australia

In 1893, he was again called to the Australian field, where he gave an added three years of time. In the latter part of 1902 England became his field of labor, where he was employed until early in 1904, in school and evangelistic work. Returning to America on account of failing health, California became his home, from whence he went forth to camp meetings in various states, and also labored in behalf of needy churches.

Mr. Corliss has, in the more than half-century of public life, been ever loyal to the message of truth, in all its phases, frowning against every attempt to add to its scope, or take from it any phase of its efficient fulness. His inherited means have always been freely devoted to assist, directly or indirectly, toward the upbuilding of the work, and that without ostentation. Needy young people, who had not the means at command to pay school tuition so much desired by them, have ever drawn upon his sympathies, and he has gladly sent to school twenty-five boys and girls, besides those of his own family.

On Sabbath, September 8, he spoke in the church in Pasadena. Near the close of the Sabbath Mr. Corliss told his wife that he was not feeling well. A little while after this he was taken with a severe chill. Complications set in and it seemed best to bring him to the Glendale Sanitarium. All that loving hands could do was done for him, but he gradually grew worse, and Monday forenoon, about 11 o'clock, his life went out.

Sound Financing Seen in Building Program

The wholesome and conservative financing back of Glendale's building program was stressed in a regular monthly report made by Julius Kranz, president, to the directorate of the Glendale Mortgage Discount company, whose offices are located at Suite 15, 103-A North Brand boulevard.

Mr. Kranz reported the company in a flourishing condition and expressed an optimistic view of the future, stating that many applications are being received for the purchase of trust deeds his company handles.

HOLDING COLORADOAN

Art Smith, whose address and real name are somewhat uncertain, is now being held in the city jail awaiting his extradition and return to the state of Colorado. He is alleged to have driven a stolen Ford roadster from Greeley, Colo. The police department was notified yesterday morning that he was attempting to sell it in Glendale. He was arrested yesterday afternoon in the Verdugo hills by Captain W. A. Loving and Detective W. J. Royle of the local police department.

RECONSTRUCTION IN JAPAN SPEEDY

Disease Endangers Relief Work As Order Comes Out Of Chaos

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Despite rigorous sanitary measures there were 250 cases of infectious diseases in Tokio up to September 14, according to a foreign office dispatch to the Japanese embassy today. The diseases included thirty-one cases of typhoid fever, eight cases of para typhoid and 201 cases of dysentery.

By DUKE N. PARRY
For International News Service

TOKIO, Sept. 19.—Work is well under way on the reconstruction of Japan's capital city.

Prince Regent Hirohito has toured part of the devastated area of Tokio on horseback. He was accompanied on the inspection trip by only a few members of his staff and returned to Akasaka palace two hours later. He was reported appalled by the huge damage and the changed appearance of the city. He toured only the better parts of the damaged area and was to make a later trip through the slum district, where appalling sights still exist.

Rain Deluges Refugees

Tokio and the Yokohama district were deluged by heavy rain over the week end and the refugees suffered severely. All houses are crowded to capacity and thousands were forced to remain outdoors, due to lack of shelter. Lower parts of Tokio are flooded, adding to the suffering.

The government is speeding the work of erecting barracks, the refugees waiting their completion in the streets. The transportation of food to Tokio and Yokohama is continuing under difficulties. Even the limited rail service is interrupted, only one line remaining partially open. The landing of supplies from steamships is being hampered by lack of barges for landing purposes.

Bring Order Out of Chaos

The railway department began an investigation today into ways and means of speeding the handling of supplies and the advisability of establishing a central depot in Yokohama.

The ministers of agriculture, commerce and communications have returned from an inspection trip of Yokohama, where they sought first hand information prior to establishing reconstruction regulations. The government announces plans for the immediate formation of a board of inquiry for reconstruction which will report to the premier prior to the formation of the reconstruction ministry.

mitted his report and asked that his committee be discharged.

W. E. Hewitt was appointed as the representative of the Chamber of Commerce to secure the appointment of representatives from all local organizations interested in charitable and welfare work and to organize a permanent committee, from which it is planned to appoint an executive committee that will have the entire direction of the Community Chest.

Solves Difficulties

Dr. Newton stated that the inquiries conducted by his committee had shown that the organization of a Community Chest helps to solve the difficulties connected with the raising of funds for charitable and welfare purposes, eliminating rivalry and preventing the over-lapping of the efforts of the various organizations.

Burton McGinnis, secretary of the committee headed by Dr. Newton, reported that practically every local organization that had been asked to confer on the matter of the Community Chest had warmly endorsed the project and had promised to co-operate fully in making it a success.

Dr. Henry I. Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist church, who was present at the meeting, promised the aid of the Ministerial Association as soon as two minor details shall have been adjusted.

Captain Richmond P. Hobson appeared before the board to renew a request that he had submitted to Secretary Sanders recently that the Chamber of Commerce lend its moral support to the work of the International Narcotic Educational Association in its war on the use of narcotics, and he supplemented his original request last night by giving the plans of his campaign to secure memberships here at the rate of $1 for each family. He asked that the Chamber of Commerce underwrite the sum of $1000 for this purpose, making the money available at the earliest possible moment.

Director Roy L. Kent was named to head a committee that will investigate the matter and report to the board as to the course that should be followed.

When refusing a penitent a second hearing your biased attitude is based on a poisoned mind.

Grappler Seeks Match With 'Bull' or 'Hack'

Louis Pergantos, claiming the Greek light-heavyweight championship, is out with a challenge to any wrestler weighing up to 185 pounds, for a bout in some Glendale arena. Pergantos, who weighs around 175 pounds ringside, is willing to give or take ten pounds. He is especially anxious to get a crack at either Bull Montana or John Hackenschmidt.

N. M. Talley, formerly a promoter of athletic events in Phoenix, Ariz., is assisting Pergantos in his efforts to get some opponent on the mat.

order. And, as is usually the case, in presenting progressive legislation, the adoption of the measure has been met by more or less adverse criticism and comment. While it may not be free from 'bugs,' as a whole, I believe it one of the best pieces of motor vehicle legislation ever adopted in the United States, and California motorists will find other states adopting its principal provisions after criticisms of the measure have ceased.

Provisions Are Equitable

"The revenue producing provisions of the measure, including those of its companion bill, providing for a gas tax, are generally conceded to be the most equable yet devised."

Those are Mr. Marsh's views. He was present at practically every committee meeting considering motor vehicle legislation during the solons' session, as was the writer.

There is no doubt but what everyone was then agreed that limitations should be placed on those speed officers who were employed for no other purpose than producing revenue for their communities.

Certainly, they are in no position to harass the motoring public by dodging out of an alley and claiming the speed law has been violated. It is now necessary for them to prove a wilful desire to speed on the part of the violator.

And that's that!

Cereals Offer Wide Variety of Menus

With the advent of cooler days, cooked cereals are becoming popular in the family menus and Glendale people are offered a wide range of choice in the stock of cereals carried at the local Sam Seelig company store.

In arranging this stock the Seelig people state that this up-to-date staff of life, so necessary to everyone is now available in so many forms that a wide variety may be served so the family will not tire of cereals so readily. Many of the old standard cereals have been improved so as to be as nutritious, but more palatable and easily digestible.

The up-to-date grocery has about thirty varieties, suitable for all purposes, and if one gets them fresh they are sure to please every member of the family.

OXY ROPE RUSH STAGED THURSDAY

Freshmen Elect M. Godet as Temporary President; Other Notes

The freshman class of Occidental met yesterday morning after chapel for the purpose of organization. Michael Godet, former Franklin High school boy, was honored by being elected temporary president of the class of 1927. Miss Elizabeth Lesh was made temporary secretary.

The proclamation was then read to the yearlings by Harold Wagner, president of the "Tribunal" and will be put into effect by the sophomore class today.

The annual freshman-sophomore rope rush at Occidental college will take place Thursday afternoon at 3:30, on Paterson field. This gentle classic and tradition of the Tigers is of great importance to both the frosh and sophs. It will be the first opportunity for the Class of 1927 to demonstrate their powers and ability to the rest of the college.

Registration Totals 465

The total registration at Occidental to date is four hundred and sixty-five students. The following statistics were given out yesterday by Dean Thomas G. Burt, who has been in charge of the registration. There are 238 boys and 227 girls attending the institution, including 175 freshmen, 119 sophomores, 97 juniors, 60 seniors, and five post-graduates, and three specials.

A campaign is now under way by the Occidental College Women's club for the raising of $100,000 to be used for a Women's Dormitory on the campus. Through the co-operation of the women's organization of the Presbyterian church the campaign is coming along very successfully.

TAGGING THE BASES

Needing only a single game to clinch the American league pennant, the Yanks again forebore, finishing second to the Indians, 8 to 3.

Art Nehf treated the Cardinals to a left-handed defeat, 10 to 4, the Giants smiting Haines and Barfoot quite readily.

Judge Draws Retort From One Subscriber

who should not be made to suffer, and a matter of amusement among judges and arresting officers. They would joke about the size of 'the class' to be 'examined,' and would discuss the possibilities of a good day's business or a poor day's business.

"No, the fault is not entirely with the law makers. Reasonable thinkers and those who REALLY want law enforcement contend that the men who applied the old law used as little good sense as the men who made the new law.

"It may be 'the bunk,' but there are many such laws that can be well described by the terms 'punk' and 'bunk.' If a special session were called to amend or repeal every silly law there would be one following every legislative session. It is ridiculous to think of such a thing."

Barbara Taylor in Tennis Semi-Finals

The girls' tennis tournament, held on the Glendale Union high school courts under the auspices of Community Service, resulted in Mary Barbara Taylor defeating Doris Moyse in the third round and earning the right to meet Virginia Clark in the semi-finals.

Doris Moyse defeated Blanche Tallman in the first round and took the second from Thelma Parksdale by default. Mary Barbara Taylor, who won from Marion Farland in the second round by default, defeated Doris Moyse by 6-0 and 6-2.

THE PENNANT RACE

While the Yankees are still struggling to gain the needed victory to clinch the pennant, the Giants made a further gain on the Reds. The Giants are today five games in front of the Reds and five and a half games ahead of the Pirates.

The Giants still have eleven games to play. If they win five of them the Reds must win twelve of their thirteen games to beat them out, while, in this event the Pirates, in order to win the pennant, must win all of their fourteen contests.

The Yanks will have to forego clinching the pennant until tomorrow, as they are idle today.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Three Ages" shows at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today. This big Metro picture, produced by Joseph M. Schenck, shows Buster Keaton in his first full length feature comedy.

In the supporting cast are Wallace Beery, Joe Roberts, Lillian Lawrence, Horace Morgan and Margaret Leahy, the prize English beauty. The story tells most humorously of the progress of love from cave age times to the present, showing it to remain much the same throughout history, and then some.

"Three Ages" contains some of the most lavish sets ever used in a comedy, among them a reproduction of the great Roman colliseum. This set alone undoubtedly cost a small fortune to construct and lifts the production into a class by itself.

MARYSVILLE VISITORS

F. D. Gordon, a wealthy property owner, and W. H. Burke, a dry goods merchant, both of Marysville, are in Glendale at present as the guests of Ed N. Radke, 109½ South Brand boulevard, under whose auspices they are being introduced to the members of the city's commercial community.

To calmly face destructive wrath
Man prays to find life's golden path.

THE GATEWAY

"One Stolen Night," starring Alice Calhoun, a romance of the Sahara, is the feature at the Gateway Theatre tonight. This chic star is always a favorite in Glendale and her present vehicle is particularly appealing.

It is a story of brave deeds, strong loves, mystery, romance, adventure on the burning sands of the great desert, under a tropical sun by day and a great passion moon by night. Picture an American girl, hungry for lost dreams, stealing away through the equatorial shadows to "One Stolen Night," knowing well what the next day may mean.

In addition, "the better kind" of vaudeville is at the Gateway Theatre today, comprising several acts of singing, dancing and novelties.

BURBANK

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PLANNED

Rev. Leon H. Austin Sent to Build Edifice In Benmar Hills

A beautiful new Congregational church to cost not less than $75,000 will rise presently at Benmar Hills, on a site already selected, fronting ninety-five feet on Fourth street and running the depth of the block between Amherst drive and Bethany road, according to announcement made by Rev. Leon H. Austin, who is here with Mrs. Austin to plan and execute construction.

The movement is backed by the Southern California Congregational conference, which has chosen Reverend Austin to be pastor of the new church. A parsonage will be erected first, work starting in about two weeks.

The parsonage will contain six large rooms, Rev. Austin states, the mission style of architecture being foliowed. The church will be in harmony and will be one of very satisfying appearance.

The new pastor comes to this city from the Vernon Avenue Congregational church of Los Angeles, where he has occupied the pulpit for the past two years. He came originally from Boston and is a personal friend of J. T. Shelton and of R. R. Sence.

Until the church can be erected, services will probably be held in the Burbank High school, he states.

Offer Extension Courses

Mrs. L. F. Collins is working for the institution in Burbank of extension courses under the University of California, Southern branch, with public speaking, psychological measurement and citizenship as the three initial courses.

The courses are to be in fifteen lessons, one lesson a week, of two hours each, probably from 4 until 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The plan is to have Dr. Darsie, head of the department of education in the Southern branch, give the psychological measurements course, while Professor Wollner would probably give the course in citizenship.

Whether or not Mrs. Collins' plan materializes depends largely upon whether enough teachers and others can be interested in the project to the extent of enrolling for the courses. Glendale has heretofore been the nearest point where such instruction was available.

To Check Headlights

Burbank traffic officers are cooperating with county and state officers in a vigorous campaign against illegal headlights, it is announced by Police Chief John H. Long. Hereafter the motorist with one black eye—on his car, not on his person!—will be sternly dealt with, as will that road pest who insists on blinding everyone else with the brilliance of his (car's) optics.

"A staff of ninety-five state officers, mounted on nice bright motor-bikes capable of going real fast, will unite with hundreds of local officers all over California in stamping out the headlight nuisance," says Chief Long, who points out that in the thirty counties of the state, over 200 official headlight adjusting stations have been established to aid motorists in complying with the law.

"We want to give motorists every chance to get their lights adjusted without getting into trouble," Chief Long says. "We want auto drivers to consider the other fellow, then follow the dictates of their conscience. If they will do that, there will be few arrests."

NASH DEMAND IS TAXING FACTORY

Output for Eight Months Is Greater Than Entire 1922 Production

Sales of Nash cars for the first eight months of 1923 surpass the mark established for the full twelve months of 1922. This announcement by E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors Company, is contained in a letter to the Nash Sales Company, Inc., 112 South Maryland street, local distributors, and is supplemented by the statement that, following the announcement of the new Nash models early in August, demand has been far in excess of production.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. McCarty, "the factory was oversold in August one thousand cars and will be oversold to a greater extent in September. August eclipsed July in point of sales, a condition that is unusual.

"The new Nash models in both the four- and six-cylinder lines met instant approval on the part of the buying public. Embodying many improvements and refinements and at no increase over previous prices, these new cars are establishing for Nash motors a new record in public demand and volume of sales.

"Reports received by us from dealers on the various state and county fairs held throughout the country since August 1 tell of public interest in the Nash line. This interest is confined to no particular sections of the country, but is a condition that is general.

"Every indication points to a continuance of heavy demand throughout the fall period."

EAGLE ROCK

TELLS BENEFITS FROM RAILWAY CO.

Official Shows Receipts Of City From Operation of Street Cars

Just what Eagle Rock gets from the Los Angeles Railway company, in the way of nickels and dimes, was shown last night by C. A. Recapee, superintendent of schedules, before an open forum meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Central school, brought forth a large audience to hear Mr. Recapee and others on the well-balanced program, arranged by H. H. Maxson, in conjunction with Donald G. Montgomery, local C. of C. secretary.

Captain Rhodes of the Los Angeles fire department was also among the speakers, telling the audience many things about fire protection that they had never heard before.

Couldn't Leave "Homeland"

Here is a tale whose chief character shall be nameless—or, well, we will call her Mrs. Blank. Her friends know about this, anyway, so it's not for them, but merely to illustrate what an appeal Eagle Rock has on her residents.

Mrs. Blank was all ready to move into her new home in Hollywood. Furniture, china, linen and other household goods had preceded her. As a last show of affection, her friends gave this popular matron a farewell breakfast.

There were many good-byes—and, yes!—a few tears. Finally, one by one, her friends urged Mrs. Blank to stay. When she raised the point that all her worldly possessions were already in Hollywood, they agreed to lend her what she might need until she could get them back again.

Result—there befell a shower of china, furniture, silverware, linen, and goodness knows what. Who says it never rains here in September? And—oh, yes, Mrs. Blank stayed in Eagle Rock. At least, she's here.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Biles, prominent local banker and his wife, were given a genuine surprise party last Wednesday night, at their 132 North Kenilworth avenue home, by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bailey and Dr. and Mrs. Edward Ellison, the occasion being the Biles' tenth wedding anniversary. The party broke up at a late hour, after a most enjoyabe evening.

Mrs. Carrie Roberts and son, Howard, are back at 246 Ellenwood drive, after a delightful vacation spent at Santa Cruz with Mrs. Moshier and Neil Shuler.

Reorganization Sale Planned by Pendroys

In announcing their reorganization sale for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 20, 21 and 22, the Pendroy department store, at the corner of South Brand boulevard and Harvard street, also announces that they now have associated with them W. O. Blatchford as manager of the department housed on the third floor.

Upon assuming his managerial duties Mr. Blatchford has suggested this reorganization sale to clear the floor of its present stock and make room for purchases now on their way to the store.

Mr. Blatchford comes to Pendroy's with a fine background of experience. He was with the Spears company of New York, Pittsburg and Cincinnati for over twenty-three years as assistant manager and traveling head salesman through their chain of stores.

Miss Martha Jacobs, from Los Angeles, has been secured to have charge of the basement store.

Sympathy for Officials Growing Communities 'London of the Pacific' Making California Real

By Gil A. Cowan

THE Glendale Evening News has been instrumental in opening a large controversy over the new motor vehicle law. The opinions of various officials and others have saturated the news columns, and today we are presenting an interview with Will H. Marsh, chief of the division of motor, vehicles, who is rather disparaging of the law's critics.

While we might essay to write our own views, it is much more interesting to chronicle others' ideas. A newspaper should be, it is claimed, a reflection of its readers' thoughts—giving the public what it wants to read and talk about.

There seems to be little prospect for a change in the law, yet an awakening of public consciousness to the necessity for safe driving will accomplish much more, no doubt, than stringent regulation, which is, in the last analysis, ineffective as a deterrent of wrong-doing.

The legislative, executive and judicial officials cannot always agree under a democratic form of government, yet all of them are deserving of sympathy in their efforts to serve the public. And such is the case in the instance of progressive motor legislation, it would appear today.

Growing Glendale is expanding so rapidly that we seldom have time to take a glance around and see what our neighbors are doing. So it was an occasion of great pleasure last Saturday afternoon when we motored over to Burbank for an hour of "sight seeing."

The growth of the sister city is equally phenomenal as Glendale. And its foothills present much the same opportunity for development. The only difference, so far as we can see, is that of mileage to the metropolis. Yet, as Los Angeles grows and Glendale grows, Burbank is sure to grow apace.

The same holds true with Montrose, Tujunga and other communities surrounding Verdugo foothills. We wonder if there is not a day in the dim, distant future when the encircling homes around Mount Verdugo will be incorporated into one great body politic.

Another thought that came to the writer while considering the magnitude of the metropolis now in the building here in our Southland. It is a slogan which would make the world take notice, to wit:

"Los Angeles—London of the Pacific."

It might make San Francisco jealous, but it would certainly appeal to international shipping and bring to the southern port a prestige it will eventually attain.

And with the opening of new ports on the west coast of Mexico, the development of South America, and the renaissance of China, the world traders will find Los Angeles is most centrally located.

The Fresno Republican editor sounds an esthetic appeal in the following comment, which we reprint with pleasure:

"If you are a native of California, you probably have little conception of the luxury of fruit. You have been accustomed to good fruit all your life. Possibly you have complained about the cost. You have not been able to understand why you should pay as much for it at the fruit stands, when you hear that, some seasons, it rots on the trees for want of picking. And you complain, if it happens to be a little overripe, without understanding how difficult it is, even in a fruit country, to pick peaches or grapes or plums so they will reach the consumers' hands just in the right condition. No, to you, fruit is so nearly a necessity that you deal with it as a necesesity, and complain about it as a necessity.

"But, if you are from Maine or Minnesota, or Ohio, or Iowa, or from some other point in the East where the apple orchard is the only native fruit, or where some berries on a hillside are a much-prized rarity, or where one goes miles to a creek bank to pick wild grapes—here California fruit is not a commonplace.

"And yet, the ease of modern transportation, and the facilities of modern business have brought California very close to being common. Instead of being an ideal of poetry, a dream for one to fulfill in old age, it is a matter of walking down to a corner fruit store and buying.

"When, for our profit, a slice of California beauty, California taste, California joy of living, can be put into every home, throughout the other forty-seven states, ought we not have a sense of responsibility?

"Oughtn't we make sure that our California name is not besmirched by deception, by fraud? Ought we not be sure that this California that is sold for 10 cents by a dealer in Peoria, Ill., is a little bit of the heaven that the little boy or girl who is to eat it has heard about and hopes to taste?

"Why not make this 'California' real all over this land of ours?"

Roof Garden Party

Mrs. Viola Waddell, well-known club woman, announces the Tuesday Morning club of Los Angeles is to have a roof garden party on the night of September 21, on Hamburger's roof. Visitors will use the Eighth street entrance. Mrs. Valikett will give character delineations and Carl Gantvoort, prominent grand opera baritone, will sing. Ruth White and Ruth Raymer, of the Julian Eltinge revue, will dance. The club expects to broadcast radio messages from very prominent people of the city and state.

The booths will offer for sale candies, ice cream and other dainties, several large candy factories in the city donating their products. The Puritas Coffee company is furnishing gratis all the coffee for the evening's refreshments. The tickets are 50 cents each, the funds going to the building fund of the Tuesday Morning club.

This club is not a social affair, but devotes its time to the study of citizenship. Mrs. Waddell is chairman of the building fund unit, as the committees are named.

Open Music Classes

Miss Marguerite Hauber announces the opening of her studios of music beginning this week. Registration is now in order, and plans have been perfected, whereby many new students can be accommodated. Miss Hauber has as her assistant Mrs. Mabel Tompkins of the University of Southern California, a splendid musician and an efficient teacher, having had a wide range of experience.

Semester recitals are being planned to provide the students with public performance experience, classes in harmony and music appreciation are also being formed. These classes will all be held in Miss Hauber's studio on Ramsdale avenue, off West Montrose avenue. Miss Hauber will continue her work at the College of Music, Unversity of Southern California, as a member of the faculty, specializing in harmony and theory.

Miss Ethelyn Smith spent the week-end with the A. M. Browns on Los Angeles avenue. Miss Smith moved lately to Huntington Park.

De Molay Members to Stage Musical Comedy

The Glendale chapter of De Molay will present on the nights of October 1 and 2, in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, a musical comedy entitled "Petticoat Lane," announces Paul Morgan, general chairman.

Lucien Denni, a professional composer and director, has been engaged to put on the piece. The cast will total seventy-five, including De Molay boys, high school and college girls, and a number of local society women. Pearl Keller, whose dancing school of that name is widely known, will furnish six of her young pupils for one scene, while Pendroy's will supply the gowns and costumes, together with several models for the fashion scene.

Marie Hearnshaw, popular young Glendale Union High school student, will take the feminine lead, while Claude Whitfield and Paul Morgan will split the male lead. A chorus of "Glendale Cuties" will present a bevy of local loveliness. Tickets go on sale this afternoon and can be obtained from De Molay members and anyone in the cast.

Where dirt is stirred up, a dirty mark is left, and it requires force to cleanse the spot.

CONSTITUTION IS KEYNOTE OF K. P. LODGE PROGRAM

Pythian Sisters Honored at Dinner and Dance Held In Castle Hall

Fitting observation of Constitution week combined with a dinner dance in honor of the Pythian sisters occupied the attention of the Knights of Pythias last evening at their hall, corner of Brand boulevard and Park avenue.

Chancellor Commander E. S. Melzer presided over a program prepared by Attorney G. H. King, which accompanied a delicious dinner served by the Knights. Past Chancellor Commander Emil Fram read the invocation, Boy Scout Troop No. 1, led by Scoutmaster Hal Leedom, made a presentation of the Colors, to which the audience responded with the pledge of allegiance, while the orchestra played "America."

Patriotic Program

J. A. Spence read the Constitution, W. J. Hibbert gave an address on Pythian knighthood and Pythian sisterhood, telling the precepts of the order. Mrs. S. V. Jolliffe responded with a talk on "Our Pythian Brothers." Mrs. G. W. Pearce gave a reading. Little Adeline Woodberry, as usual, delighted the audience with saxophone solos accompanied by A. M. Kelly's Shrine club orchestra, which provided music for the dancing.

Miss Doris Van Court played two piano selections while Mrs. Effie Van Court and F. S. Black sang solos, and Mrs. F. J. Willett and Mrs. H. J. Fenster played a piano duet. Dancing concluded the evening's entertainment, in which 250 participated.

Introducing the program, Mr. King made a few remarks about the Constitution of the United States. He said in part:

136th Anniversary

"Monday, September 17, 1923, is the 136th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States, which was the most important event in American history, and one of the most important achievements in world history.

Queer Questions About Stanford And New Hotel

QUEER questions are being heard on the streets of Glendale today, of which The Glendale Evening News has not been able to ascertain the meaning. The most humorous "gag" sprung by the wise crackers appears to be:

"Since when has Stanford university moved to Berkeley? We always thought it was at Palo Alto." Righto! Stanford is a "safe" distance from Berkeley.

Another question, evidently emanating from uninformed circles, is:

"Did you hear about the new hotel to be built at the northwest corner of Brand and Broadway?" Sorry, but the Glendalia Hotel, when built, will occupy the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and California street.

"Peculiar how such foolish rumors get started, isn't it," That's the real question of the day.

N. Y. ENGINEER IS GLENDALE VISITOR

J. J. Beran Says Investors In East Looking To Southland Now

J. J. Beran, outside engineering expert for the United Engineering Company of No. 8 West Fortieth street, New York City, is visiting at the home of his brother, S. S. Beran, local contractor, who resides at 1529 East Broadway.

Mr. Beran arrived in the southland on Sunday night, and in forty-eight hours he has become convinced that Glendale offers the greatest opportunity in the United States as a building center. In fact, he is greatly enthused over prospects here.

It may be that the United Engineering Company will open a western office in Los Angeles, Mr. Beran states, although his brother may induce him to locate in Glendale and go into heavy construction work here. J. J. Beran was a captain in the construction engineering forces of the United States army during the war.

Everyone in the east is talking about the remarkable strides of Southern California, Mr. Beran states, and investments here are now considered the greatest opportunity in financial circles of New York.

"Glendale has a wonderful future," is the visitor's comment.

'Wireless Telephony' Years Ago Considered 'Nuisance' By Local Experimenter

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff

WILLIAM PECK, of 114 South Louise street, who recently achieved the feat of wiring the Frederick apartments for radio so that twenty head-sets may be plugged in simultaneously or at random, without disturbance to the tuning of the main receiving apparatus, is a man who for forty years has followed the meteoric course of electrical development and at the age of 70 is accredited one of the foremost radio experts on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Peck started his experiments as the Bell people were first evolving and consolidating their modern telephone system. At that time he built phones from the raw material to the finished product, making many refinements that were later adopted as standard equipment.

Heard by Wireless

It was while experimenting with the telephone that Mr. Peck came in contact with a phenomenon that, had he followed it up, would have led him to the discovery of wireless and radio.

While talking over a set of instruments connected between his house and workshop, in the town of Kent, Ohio, he discovered that by induction he could hear messages that were coming over a cable line passing several feet away.

Instead of trying to increase the audibility of this phenomenon, Mr. Peck experimented to decrease it, being interested in the development of the telephone and considering outside sounds a disturbance. Thus he drifted away from a great discovery on whose very brink he had hovered, letting it remain for Marconi and others to recontact and develop this phenomenon of sound transmission without wires.

How Things Change

Three decades later, now a man of advanced years, Mr. Peck finds himself, strangely enough, once more encountering that phenome-

RED TAPE IS CUT IN STREET WORK

City Attorney Ray L. Morrow Tells of Amendments Act of 1911

Amendments to the Street Improvement Act of 1911, which have just gone into effect, in the opinion of City Attorney Ray L. Morrow, will have a tendency to simplify local street procedure.

The changes made in this act by the last legislature were discussed recently at Coronado at the annual convention of the Pacific League of Municipalities. Much favorable comment was made upon the amendments by city officials from various communities throughout California. They expressed their opinion that they would assist in community development.

Errors Caused Trouble

One of the amendments makes it unnecessary to establish an official grade before commencing actual street proceedings. The basic grade is shown on the accompanying plans and profiles and no special action in regard to it is necessary. Previously, if a flaw were found in the official grade of any section of a street, it formed a legal obstruction to the entire procedure.

An optional provision of the amended act makes it legal for a city council or adopt a map outlining an assessment district without making verbal reference to the boundaries in the resolution of intention. In order to ascertain

ELKS BAND PUTS PEP INTO STATE CONVENTION TRIP

Glendale Lodge Shows Class Sending Delegates to Eureka Meeting

Glendalians had a convincing demonstraton yesterday afternoon of the colorful and harmonious advertising "The Fastest Growing City in America" is to receive at the state convention of Elks at Eureka, when the lodge band in bright new uniforms, playing live march music, led the Glendale delegation on parade on Brand boulevard before leaving at 3:20 o'clock on the Glendale-Pasadena special.

The attractiveness of the new purple and white band uniforms has been commented on among lodge members, but it was not until yesterday that they were presented to the public.

Compliment Band's Class

Compliments were heard all along the line of march. The prediction was unanimous that the Glendale Elks will be a feature of the convention gathering in the northern city.

James A. Apffel, exalted ruler of the Glendale lodge, headed the delegation that rode behind the band in automobiles, and also boarded the special at the Southern Pacific depot in Tropico. There were four women on the train, Mrs. Apffel, Mrs. J. H. Hearnshaw, who accompanied her brother, W. H. Viohl, and Mesdames Holmes and Kerwin, whose husbands are members of the band.

Others On Trip

Others in the Glendale delegation were: W. Osterman, band leader; B. M. Burke, band manager; Herbert Henning, H. A. Thompson, Roy Flint, W. G. Bode, J. A. Becker, F. L. Hummel, J. T. Gleason, Ed Kerri, H. C. Jackson, L. E. Wilbur, Dan Boone, F. A. Prouty, C. Kaston, I. S. Brown, F. L. Woollard, H. D. Greenwalt, Ed Moniot, W. M. Ross, R. C. Durke, H. A. Hughes, F. Berto, M. J. Heller, George White, W. Van Duesen, Noel Graham, R. B. Thomas, R. E. Sutton, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Kerwin, band members; Gustav Thimgan, Mr. Kline, Julius Moniot, W. H. Viohl, E. P. Rose of San Fernando, Harry Houston of San Fernando, Fred Church, John Roman, Walter Adams. In the Glendale section were also four members from the lodge at Brawley.

The special will arrive in Eureka at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The convention will be in session Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Community Players Postpone Rehearsal

The Wednesday evening rehearsal of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which will soon be presented by the Community Players, has been postponed until Friday evening, September 21, owing to the wedding of Miss Dorothy Morton, a member of the cast. The Friday evening rehearsal will be held at the home of the director, Mrs. Nanno Woods, 122 West Milford street, at 7:30 o'clock.

Remove Last Barrier to Eastern Autoists

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Assurance that the last barrier to automobile tourist travel from the east to Northern and Central California will be removed in time for the 1924 season, was received today by the California State Automobile Association from Governor Charles Mabry of Utah. Game Hogs Feared as Duck Season Opens

RENO, Nev., Sept. 19.—The ponds and lakes in western Nevada are crowded with "flappers," otherwise young ducks unable to fly, according to Game Warden George I. James.

Last year "sportsmen" waded into the streams and caught hundreds in their hands. The season opened September 16, and James says he will endeavor to put a stop to such unsportsmanlike conduct.

FIRST IT'S EDITH HAGIN 'SAFE', NOW IT'S FANNIE HAGIN 'SAFE', BUT DAN HAS YET TO REPORT

INTERESTING current events are suggested by the Fred E. Hagin family of 634 North Howard street, which is represented in Japan in the recently devastated area and in Berkeley, California, where a ravaging fire resulted in severe damage Monday.

A cablegram last week brought word of the daughter Edith's safety in the mountains near Tokio, where she was engaged in school work.

A telegram yesterday from Berkeley told of the other daughter Fannie Alice's safety from the fire. She is doing post-graduate work at the University of California. The message read, "Safe, far from fire."

"We have certainly been sharing in recent catastrophes," says Mrs. Hagin, "but we have been most fortunate for neither of our daughters were injured.

"Our son Dan is in Chicago and we are expecting any day to hear that he is frozen in the mid-west fall weather."

HOW'S THIS YARN, HENNY PENNY?

Ten-Year-Old Chicken Has Birthday Party

By VIRGINIA KAY
Of The Evening News Staff

HENNY PENNY of story book fame, who hurried along her way "to tell the king the sky was falling in," was no more precocious than "Betty Cox," 10-year-old Rhode Island hen, pet of Dr. and Mrs. S. Lisle of 1776 Hill drive, Eagle Rock.

A more fortunate fowl than "Betty Cox" has never been hatched, that is, at least in Glendale, for it was when the Lisle family were Glendalians that "Betty" burst forth from a common, ordinary brown-tinted egg.

This Hen Has Feathers, Cackles and Lays Eggs

Mrs. Lisle had a big place in her heart for every member of her chick family, and she particularly favored the little, brown, fluffy ball, which grew into a befeathered, cackling, egg-laying hen, as well as prized family pet.

So attached were the family to "Betty Cox" that, on one occasion, when they were absent from the city for a year, they boarded her out with Mrs. D. W. Cunningham of 1346 Virginia avenue, and with friends in Inglewood.

Gives Interview After Birthday Party

The tenth anniversary of the little brown hen's birthday occurred last Sunday, when she was entertained as honored guest at the family dinner table at the Lisle home. With the family gathered 'round her, "Betty Cox" enjoyed cake and ice cream, together with other good things, in return for her faithful devotion and continued supply of golden-yolked eggs.

But the birthday honor wasn't much of a surprise for her, for she is often brought into the house for treats and afternoon chats and singing parties. In fact, she took her birthday party quite matter-of-fact, until interviewed, when she modestly cackled in henlike modesty, "It's the hen's teeth!"

Vagrants Flocking West as Cold Starts

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 19.—With the advent of cold weather east of the Rockies, hundreds of vagrants daily are arriving in Sacramento on Southern Pacific and Western Pacific freight trains. They are not molested by train crews, whom they greatly outnumber.

Two daylight holdups of restaurant cashiers within forty-eight hours, are laid to these itinerants.

George H. Hecke, chief of the department of agriculture, declares the fall migration of brake-beam tourists to California is becoming annually more serious.

"Steps must be taken to cope with this increasing evil," said Hecke. "These men scatter throughout the state in groups of five to ten and frequently terrorize residents in remote sections. They do great damage to orchards, are responsible for frequent fires in barns and other outlying buildings, and bring honest workers into disrepute."

J. R. THORPE OF MONTROSE FINDS HUNTING AT HOME

Brings Down 110-Lb. Buck in Verdugo Hills Near City Limits

"Shot a deer a block outside of Glendale city limits before breakfast."

That was the terse report of J. R. Thorpe today who resides at the corner of Ocean View avenue and Waltona drive, Montrose. He is well known as a Los Angeles engraver, who has the Oakmont Saddle stables as an avocation.

Misses Larger One

Indeed, he shot a three point buck weighing 110 pounds in the Verdugo foothills one-half mile back of the Oakmont Country club which is building on Verdugo road. And he missed a four point buck weighing perhaps 180 pounds, he says, which is a big gray fellow many hunters have tracked.

It is said that one of the biggest deer slain in Southern California last season was shot in the Verdugo hills very close to where Mr. Thorpe found his quarry. Others are seen in the hills from time to time and the open season should see many nimrods flitting from ridge to ridge after the elusive bucks.

Better Luck Here

Many parties go out for fifteen days and pack far into the Sierra Nevada mountains without as much good luck as Mr. Thorpe has had right here at home in Sparr Heights vicinity.

He was not away from home more than an hour and a half!

Oregon Family Visits Glendale Relatives

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McLagan and their two sons, Russell and Robert, of Springfield, Ore., were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Flate, 1151 North Columbus avenue, leaving here Monday to motor to San Diego. Mr. McLagan and Mr. Flate are cousins.

Mr. and Mrs. McLagan are touring California in their car and will return to Glendale for a brief stay about the end of the week.

SPANISH WAR VETS MEET

Spanish War Veterans, Camp No. 67, of which Dr. Wm. C. Mabry is commander, will meet tonight at K. P. hall, corner of Park avenue and Brand, at 8 o'clock. The Woman's Auxiliary will meet at the same hour at the same place. Mrs. Mary R. Hill is the presiding officer of the auxiliary.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

SPIRITUALITY VS MATERIALITY

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:—I feel that I know you. I want to thank you for giving us fair and fat (but not 40!) your Diet and Health. I reduced from 176 lbs. to 148 lbs., and I think the gladdest words of tongue or pen are 'What are you doing, you are getting so thin?' I have a new daughter, born in December, and I am nursing her. She is gaining normally and I am gaining abnormally. What shall I do to be saved?—V. W. B."

My dear V. W., you will simply have to begin to count your calories again. Your daughter is six months old now as I write this. Hope you began long ago! It is a serious fallacy, this idea that the nursing mother must eat so much in order to nurse her baby that she gains in weight. Pay special attention to your calories to get the vitamins and mineral elements and protein you need, and cut down on your sugars and fats, bread and pastries. Send for our article on "Diet in Pregnancy and Nursing."

R. I. D.—Intense itching, such as you say you have, may be due to some constitutional disease, such as diabetes, or to some simpler derangements of the system due to faulty habits. It may also be due to pin worms. Examine your stools to see if there are any pin worms. They are easily seen. You will have to find out the cause of your itching before it can be cured.

Solutions containing a small percentage of carbolic acid are helpful to allay itching. After thoroughly washing the parts with hot water, apply a solution made of glycerine, 2 oz., water, 6 oz., and 10 drops of carbolic acid. Perhaps you had better, if the itching is so intense, apply a bandage heavily covered with some ointment, such as boric ointment.

Do not scratch. That simply makes it worse. If it becomes unbearable, make a heavy pressure on the part but do not dig it and scratch it.

Have a thorough physical examination, Mrs. D., to determine the cause of your trouble. We have an article on pruritus which goes into the subject more fully.

Mrs. M.—The reason you are not gaining on your milk diet is because you are not getting enough milk. You say you are taking two and one-half quarts, which is only 1600 calories. That is not sufficient to gain on. It probably would be a losing diet for many people. You have to take four to six quarts a day before you would gain on an exclusive milk diet.

You say you are also taking some green vegetables and you are afraid you don't get the vegetables that will combine with the milk which you have had. There is a good deal of unnecessary worry over whether foods will combine. You can take any green vegetables you want.

There are two or three good text books on the market on the milk cure. Better get one of those. Get one written by some one who knows from long experience how it should be given.

Mrs. T.—Can't you find out where your husband is getting his intoxicating drinks and have the purveyor arrested? Your husband should be under the care of a physician who specializes in mental and nervous disorders. I suggest you seek the legal aid service of your town or city, and they will give you instructions what to do.

Mrs. C.—We have an article on bed-wetting you may have by sending for it according to the rules of the column. You say your child is undernourished. That is probably the chief cause of the habit.

Mrs. G. and Others—We have an article on hyperacidity, and one on acidosis, which you may have by following the rules of the column—self addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Tomorrow—More Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 250 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith —we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

CHANGES HER MIND TOO OFTEN?

Anyway, Mary Landon Baker Not Yet Wedded

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. — Miss Mary Landon Baker, recognized as the jiltingest heiress extant, is pouting these days.

Mary left Allister McCormick scion of the millionaire harvester family, waiting at the church and jilted him until he called all marital bets off as far as she was concerned.

Now, according to reports from abroad, he is to wed Joan Stevens, London beauty.

Does Mary care? She does not and that comes from no less an authority than Mary herself.

But Mary isn't in the best of humor in spite of her lack of interest.

She doesn't know Miss Stevens and she doesn't care to, thank you. Mary was asked if, under the circumstances inasmuch as she did not care a tinker's whoop, if she'd congratulate the bride.

"I should say not." That ended that.

McCormick, it must be remembered, has for a long time been quite the most eligible young bachelor in Chicago society.

It must be remembered he is a scion of the McCormick family, a cousin of Harold F. McCormick and a grand-nephew of the late Cyrus H. McCormick, Sr., founder of the McCormick Harvester works.

In that his family connections have been given, it is only fair also to stress the claims for social prominence cherished by Miss Baker.

She is a daughter, then, of Alfred Landon Baker, an immensely wealthy Chicago broker, and has, from the first, been prominent in the younger social set.

Society watched their romance grow through the years, and it was confidently predicted that, some day, they would marry and settle down to quiet lives in the social whirl.

Then, when the announcement was actually made, the game of hide and seek began.

Mary would marry in the fall. No, she would marry in the spring when fall came around. In October the ceremony was to be performed in May and in May it was postponed until January.

So passed nearly two years.

Came the day of the wedding.

The Fourth Presbyterian church was beautifully decorated. Those of the socially elect who had been invited came early, as did those who merely came to watch from the sidelines.

Minutes passed slowly. Once the organist let a note slip out, then to stop at once. And a titter went up.

Suspicions already formed were verified when the Rev. John Timothy Stone appeared and announced that Miss Baker had been taken suddenly ill and that for the time at least the wedding was not going to be held.

Mary announced, however, that she was returning in the spring, and that she would then go on to England, where the ceremony would finally be performed.

They were to be married in London, then in Paris, and, then, it was said they were coming back home to be married.

And so it went.

Mary finally did come home, alone, and her father announced on her behalf that the affair was over. Society, however, knowing that such announcements had been made before, gave little heed; but now—

Allister speaks, and—

Well, it's all off at last.

COMFORTABLE FEET

I can already begin to notice the effect of the new shoe fashions in my correspondence. At one time, one letter in three either was entirely about foot troubles, or at least mentioned uncomfortable feet, and asked about corn and bunion treatments. Now there is much less said about them.

It's due to a combination of French and English influences. I think I was one of the first to back in 1916, the buyer of one of see the French fashion begin, for, the smartest shoe houses in New York showed me some shoes he had just brought back from Paris. They were shockingly bad shoes, too, heels no one could balance on, short vamps, rounded toes. He copied them, modifying the toe a little, lowering the heel a trifle, and everyone began buying them in preference to the long vamp, pointed toe shoes then worn.

English sports shoes began to be seen, too, low of heel, same of toe, though badly formed by our standard of boot-making. It was the effect of the war. But the round toe won out, partly because smart women were tiring of points, and sensible ones tiring of discomfort. The low heel won out, too! We all love to be different every now and then. So at last we're approaching a fashion that is really good looking and healthy. When last in New York, the very best dressed girls wore only these simple, youthful styles. It won't last, of course! But it has years to run yet.

Have you corns? Soak the feet in hot, soapy water and with a corn knife dipped in antiseptic, shave down the yellow skin carefully. Rub with cold cream. If you're afraid to shave, bind the toe up with a slice of lemon and keep it on all night. Or poultice nightly with a hot bread poultice for three nights. The corn should soften and come out of itself. Protect the place with a bandage.

Adiene: I will be glad to mail you complete directions for using henna, but there is not space to print them at this time. Include a stamped addressed envelope with your request. I do not know what the ink contains so I cannot state whether or not it would be injurious to use it for tinting garments.

shaving or by using a depilatory. Repeat the process each time it grows out again.

Jim L.: The only thing you can do is to shave as often as needed so the mustache would not be noticed. You cannot use anything on it to thin it out.

Tomorrow—An Unusual Letter.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. Mustard Pickle: "Slice two quarts of skinned tomatoes and boil them for five minutes; drain, add to them one quart each of small cucumbers and small button onions, one cauliflower which you have broken into flowerets, and one red and one green pepper sliced, with seeds removed. Pour boiling salted water over this vegetable mixture and let stand 24 hours. Then drain and cover with boiling vinegar; let stand three days, then drain and put the vegetables into an agate saucepan; cover with one quart of vinegar, two cups of brown sugar, two tablespoons of dry mustard and one cup of flour. Heat over a mild fire till the mixture thickens, then turn it into hot, sterilized glass jars and seal at once—or use on the table at once if desired." Contributed by Mrs. D.

Olive Oil Pickles: Wash, wipe and slice two quarts of medium-size cucumbers; cover with a weak brine and let stand over night. In the morning drain and pack into hot, sterilized jars, then pour over them this liquid; Mix together one-fourth cup of sugar, one-fourth cup of mustard seed, one-half teaspoon of celery seed, one-eighth teaspoon of black pepper and three cups of cider vinegar; add one-fourth cup of olive oil and bring the mixture to the boiling point before pouring it over the sliced cucumbers in the jar. Seal airtight at once.

Uncooked Beet and Cabbage Pickle: "Chop one quart of cooked beets finely. Add one quart of finely-chopped raw cabbage, one tablespoon of salt, two cups of granulated sugar, one cup of grated horseradish and one teaspoon of black pepper. Cover with cold vinegar and seal in glass jars or use on the table at once. This is delicious with cold meats. My men-folk are very fond of it." Contributed by "Old Housekeeper."

How to Pickle any Vegetable: Boil together for 20 minutes two and one-half cups of mild vinegar, one-half cup of sugar, two small bay leaves, one-half teaspoon of whole cloves (broken fine), grated rind of one-half lemon and one inch of stick cinnamon. To this spiced vinegar you may add any vegetable you wish, boiling the vegetables in it for five minutes before sealing airtight in hot, sterilized jars. About three cups of vegetable will be needed, as it must be covered by the vinegar. (The vegetable must be previously cooked.) Brussels sprouts, sliced beats, string beans, carrots (shredded) and cauliflower separated into flowerets, are particularly good done up in this vinegar. (If beets are used, uncooked sliced onions may be canned with them.)

non—but with what a different degree of certainty! Now he works with delicate, high-powered instruments designed solely to retain that which he once discarded as a "disturbance."

For practically two years now, or almost from the beginning of radio, William Peck has experimented in his workshop at 114 South Louise street, testing out every type of hook-up that comes to his attention, in an effort to raise this new and marvelous method of sound transmission to a higher degree of efficiency.

Experiments Much

After innumerable experiments, he has concluded that the preflex hook-up is the most efficient practical set on the market and will accomplish better results than any other hook-up involving similar units, giving better tone qualities and clearer articulation than anything else with which he has experimented.

This hook-up comprises a two-radio frequency, detected by a crystal set, amplified by a two-audion frequency, then reflected back through the same tubes, giving results as of a five or six tube circuit, with but three-fourths of an ampere current flow.

Mr. Peck left Glendale on June 20 of this year, with his wife, visiting St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburg, Kent, Ohio, the University of West Virginia, Houston, Texas, and other points, on a trip that combined pleasure, a visit to his former home and a study of radio development in the east.

Southland Leads

Returning seven weeks later, he brought with him the conviction, based upon careful investigation, that Los Angeles leads the rest of the United States in radio development, with the exception of the manufacturing end, which is still conducted largely in the east.

Many of William Peck's preflex type radio sets are in use in Glendale. These sets are made at the rear of the inventor's house, in a well-equipped workshop containing two precision lathes and a large friction drill, together with other motor-driven devices for the manufacture of his sets, which are made to order.

When Mr. Peck bends over a lathe, it is with forty years' experience as a machinist behind him, the last twenty years of which have been spent in southern California, settling with his family in the Imperial Valley, in 1903, where, shortly afterward, he built the telephone line from Calexico to Yuma.

Mr. Peck sees radio today going through the same phases that a generation ago marked the development of the telephone into a household necessity, and prophesies for it a similar position of world-wide usefulness.

Red Tape Eliminated in City's Street Work

whether or not their property is located within this assessment district, citizens would be compelled to come to the city hall to examine this official map.

Attorney Morrow states that he does not intend to make use of this amendment. He will continue the policy of setting out the assessment district verbally in the resolution of intention.

Other Changes

Another amendment gives a contractor all the time he desires to collect his cash assessments before putting the unpaid assessments to bonds. Previously he was limited to ten days.

The time allowed for bringing suit for the validity of an assessment, under another amendment, is limited to thirty days after the recording of the warrant.

One of the principal features of the amended act is the fact that it permits the combination of water pipe and street proceedings. This was not permissible previously, and for this reason made the use of the Vrooman Act, which is about twenty years older than the act of 1911, preferable in many cases.

Although the new amendments are not regarded as drastic, it is believed that they will eliminate a certain amount of red tape.

TODAY: Traffic Problem Grips L. A. Is it a Job for Police? Chief Vollmer says "No."

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Traffic and its solution—ever a thorn in the side of Los Angeles—is still the most menacing problem officials have to face.

Various methods by which the traffic, which continually keeps the downtown streets clogged, can be controlled, have been suggested. Some of these plans have been given a trial, but were of no apparent satisfaction.

Chief of Police Vollmer, the "scientific cop," brought here from Berkeley to reign over the police department, suggests that the only way to regulate traffic is to take it out of the hands of the police department and place it under the supervision of an entirely new branch of the city government, created for that particular purpose.

Under the arrangement suggested by Chief Vollmer, the new department of the city government would be supervised by a traffic commission of traffic engineers. Special traffic officers, he claims, would replace the present police officers in that particular work.

"Regulation of traffic does not belong in the police department," the chief said. "It is not even police work. Prevention and detection of crime is the work of the police department.

"I strongly favor a new division of the municipal government to take over the traffic entirely. This would divorce it from the police department. My idea is for the creation of a traffic commission composed of traffic engineers, which would have full responsibility for traffic regulation.

"Police officers could be relieved from traffic duty entirely and in their place be detailed specially trained traffic officers, who would have no connection with the police department. The officers would wear different uniforms than the police and would have no connection with the police department. The officers would wear different uniforms than the police and would have the authority to enforce traffic laws only."

Chief Vollmer said there were numerous reasons why the traffic problem should be taken from the police department and cited the following:

The widening and lengthening of city streets is strictly a traffic problem, still the chief of police has nothing to say about it. He should not; a chief of police does not know anything about the widening of a street.

The granting of electric street railway franchises and bus lines is in the discretion of the city council. That is a traffic question and the action of the council may seriously handicap police efforts to regulate traffic. The chief of police has nothing to say regarding the granting of such franchises; still he is required to regulate traffic.

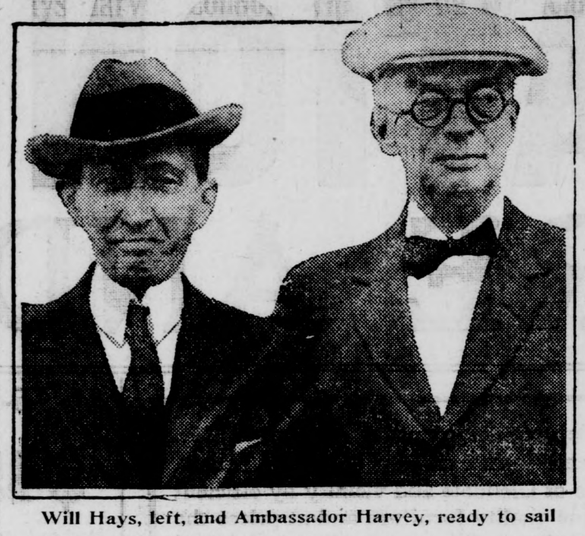
"Take the question of speed," the chief said. "How fast should traffic flow? Any slowing up of traffic interferes with the transaction of business. The chief of police should not be burdened with this problem. What does he know about commerce and transportation and the needs vital to the commercial life of a city?

"The greatest element entering into the traffic question is that the efficiency of a police department hinges greatly on the respect the community has for it. The respect an individual has for the police department is based on his contact with the single members of the department.

"The policeman should be allowed to go about his business protecting life and property and preventing crime and not burdened with traffic problems."

SEE STRATEGY IN LONG JOURNEY

Hays-Harvey London Trip May Be Political



Will Hays, left, and Ambassador Harvey, ready to sail

By GEORGE M. HEIL

AMBASSADOR GEORGE HARVEY is on his way back to his London post and accompanying him is none other than Will Hays.

To the average American this is of but little moment. The fact that Hays is to be the guest of Harvey at the American embassy in the British capital means nothing.

Little do they realize that this seemingly innocent and friendly little visit may have a momentous bearing on the 1924 election.

But in political circles speculation is rife. Old-timers of both parties, veterans of many a campaign, see an invisible hand guiding Hays on his journey.

After the election of 1920 Hays came to be known as a supergenius among politicians. His organization work, carried on unceasingly during the lean years of Republicanism while the Dems were in power, was not the least factor in the G. O. P. landslide.

Hays was hailed as a mastermind and the post of postmaster general was his reward.

Some little time later Hays resigned to become lord high potentate of the film domain and to all outward appearances at least divorced himself from active politics.

Now rumors are running riot with each other.

President Coolidge is reputed to be as the Scotchman was, "A mon of few wur-rds," but of considerable political sagacity.

Though stoutly denied in official circles the appointment of S. Bascom Slemp is looked upon by political observers as a clever maneuver to line up southern delegates in the 1924 convention solidly behind Coolidge.

Now comes the report that Col. Harvey will be at the helm of the Coolidge ship in the coming campaigns.

Harvey played a more or less important part in the campaign of 1920. He added to his store of experience in the Harding campaign, but still he does not rate in the Hays class.

Therefore, politicians see the subtle Yankee cunning of Coolidge in the trans-Atlantic trip of Hays.

It is reported that Harvey shortly will resign his post as ambassador to the Court of St. James and hie himself back home to direct the Coolidge campaign.

That being the case, close students of things political are willing to wager that Hays is going abroad to play a role of tutor. His student will be none other than Col. George himself.

They profess to see Harvey taking an intensive course in political organization and strategy from the so-called master of them all.

When this is finished they believe that his resignation will come and with it the announcement that he will direct the Coolidge forces in the 1924 skirmishes.

That being the case, the aptitude of the pupil in absorbing the talents of his tutor may have a far reaching effect on the result of the balloting next November.

Timely Views on World Topics

"In considering the issues of the 1924 campaign, the problems facing the next Congress must first be reviewed. Congress may or may not dispose of some of them before platforms are formulated," says Senator Walter Edge, Republican, New Jersey.

"I am opposed to continued Government administration of a merchant marine. Congress and apparently the country have spoken against a subsidy. I cannot conceive of any condition arising that would alter my judgment that ships and accessories not now needed for the public defense should be disposed of on the best possible terms and at once.

Soldiers Must Be Considered

"The prosperity of the country and with it the finances of the government have steadily improved during the last year, and, if we do not depart from traditional policies and thus discourage initiative, should so continue. We should, therefore, be able to agree on a soldiers' co-operative plan which would not overburden the taxpayers, of whom the veterans themselves form a not inconsiderable part, and still do justice to the nation's defenders. It is an issue that must be faced. It cannot be sidetracked. To leave this open until the 1924 elections will invite bids for soldier support, tending to encourage illogical pledges. Personally, I believe in some type of a sales tax, so that all who were served will in proper proportion pay this just obligation.

"Railroad legislation cannot be evaded. The issue in this regard, in my judgment, will be an effort on the part of conservative members of both parties to prevent government administration, which is even more of a menace than running the ships. The latter was a war legacy, but running the railroads was a war deficit and should be a lesson for all time to come.

"The World Court should not be an issue between parties or factions of parties. It is simply a broadening out of the universally accepted policy of adjustment of disputes by law, and in the final analysis I am confident the American people cannot be camouflaged that membership in any way even savors of foreign political entanglements.

Coal Another Issue

"The inability to obtain coal as needed at what is considered reasonable prices never has been satisfactorily explained to a suffering public. No problem, unless it be the Volstead act, demands a prompter solution.

"Speaking of the wet and dry issue, itt is useless to try to keep it "out of politics". The mere fact that it directly affects so many and that conflicting views are so acute necessarily keeps it to the front as a burning political issue. I am convinced that much of the existing spirit of protest is caused by a realization that many of the impossible provisions of the Volstead act are not warranted by the clear terms of the Eighteenth amendment. Neither the extreme wets nor the extreme drys will ever solve the problem, but if the Eighteenth amendment is frankly written into the Volstead act it will go a long way toward increasing respect for the law.

"There are other issues and other problems—agricultural cooperation with several recent acts yet to be tried out; taxation—but with a going country we will do well to hold it where it is; immigration—which, while it should always be restricted, should not be so arbitrary as to create the confusing and almost inhuman happenings recently recorded.

Adventures of Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

Stubby, the little white dog, was telling how he and Button missed Billy and his wife when they went away from the farm.

"So we decided we would like to see the exposition, too. After telling Billy Jr. and Daisy where we were going, we started. And I can tell you we have traveled fast, and we never got on your trail but once, and that was when you were in the stockyards in Chicago, and we were beginning to think you had been slaughtered there and we would never find your trail again."

"Gee, but it does seem good to see you, old fellow!" exclaimed Button. "And from now on we three are life partners and where one goes all three go."

"Just my sentiments exactly!" agreed Billy, and "Mine, too!" chimed in Stubby, and then all three animals rubbed noses to seal the vow.

"How did you leave Billy Jr., Daisy and my grandchildren?" inquired Billy.

"Oh, just fine, every one of them," reported Stubby.

"Tell you what, Billy, your grandchildren are some children, and if they live to grow up they are going to be like you."

"Live to grow up? Of course they are going to live to grow up! You give me the shivers when you speak of dying."

"I was not thinking of them dying," exclaimed Stubby, "but of getting killed in some of their pranks. For you know they are just as mischievous as they can be, and are getting into all sorts of trouble all the time, just as their paternal grandfather did at their age."

"You should have heard them cry," said Button, "when they heard we were coming out to try to find you. And we slipped off one night after they had gone to bed so they would not feel so badly seeing us bid good-bye to everyone and leave them behind."

"It is a good thing you did, or they would probably have tried to follow you as they did Nannie and me. But, speaking of Nannie, it is high time we were searching for her. The poor girl will be frightened to death when she finds she is really lost."

(The next story tells how Button tried to find Nannie.)

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RED BIRDS

Once upon a time there were two red birds who lived in the wood. One was named the Cardinal, and he was covered with red feathers, even to the crest of his head—except he had a few black feathers around his throat.

The other bird was a Scarlet Tanager and his feathers were all red, except his wings and tail, which were a sort of black in color.

Now these two red birds, while otherwise very beautiful and good, were always disputing, one with the other, as to which was the more handsome.

"I am much prettier than you," said the Scarlet Tanager as he flitted from branch to branch of a tree.

"Nonsense!" whistled the Cardinal, for he could whistle almost as well as any boy. "Nonsense! I am called the most handsome bird in the forest."

"Tut! Tut!" sang the Tanager. "Listen to this foolish fellow!"

And so it went on from day to day, the two red birds disputing as to which was the prettier.

"I am tired of their nonsense!" said Mrs. Tanager, who was not half so gaily feathered as her husband, having, indeed, but some dull, dingy yellow for her dress.

"So am I!" said Mrs. Cardinal, who was a drab brown in tint. "I know what we can do, though," she added.

"What?" asked Mrs. Tanager.

"We'll get Uncle Wiggily to decide," said Mrs. Cardinal. "He is sure to know which of our red birds is more handsome, and once he speaks our husbands will stop their silly chatter."

"Good!" chirped Mrs. Tanager.

So the next time Mr. Cardinal and Mr. Tanager began talking about which was the more wonderful in color Mrs. Tanager said:

"Stop your silly talking! I have asked Uncle Wiggily to come to the wood and decide this matter."

"Very good!" whistled the Cardinal birl, preening himself and making his crest stand up very straight on his head. "Uncle Wiggily will say I am best."

"Nonsense! He'll say I am!" cried the Tanager.

And perhaps they would have started their queer dispute all over again had not Uncle Wiggily hopped along just then, his pink nose twinkling very fast, because it was no easy matter to decide between two such beautiful birds.

"Now, Uncle Wiggily, will you please tell us what you think" said Mrs. Cardinal.

The rabbit gentleman looked at the bright red feathers and black wings of the Tanager.

"Certainly you are very beautiful!" said the bunny.

Then he looked at the darker red of the Cardinal and at the black throat feathers and said:

"Certainly you are very beautiful!"

"My goodness!" exclaimed Mrs. Tanager, "how is one to know from that which is the better? I don't see—"

But just then out of the bushes sprang the Bob Cat, and the bad chap caught hold of Uncle Wiggily and howled:

"Well, there is one thing certain! I am going to nibble some ears, and there is no disputing that!"

He started to nibble the bunny's ears, but Mrs. Cardinal cried to her beautiful husband:

"Oh, can't you do something to save Uncle Wiggily?"

"Yes! Yes!" added Mrs. Tanager. "It was on our account he came to the woods! Can't you save him, Mr. Tanager?"

Then the two red birds began flashing back and forth in the woods, amid the trees and bushes. The sunshine reflected from their crimson scarlet wings in flashes like fire! And, indeed, the Bob Cat thought it was fire. For the Tanager and the Cardinal flew so fast to and fro around the Bob Cat's head that the bad chap let go of Uncle Wiggily and howled:

"Oh, the woods are on fire! They are blazing with flames! This is no place for me! I'll nibble your ears some other time!"

Then away he ran, thinking the bright red wings of the birds were tongues of fire.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he felt of his ears, still safe on his head. "You are both most beautiful, Mr. Tanager and Mr. Cardinal. And, what is more, you are useful, for you drove away the Bob Cat."

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped back home to his hollow stump bungalow and the Tanager and Cardinal birds made up and were friends, each saying that the other was the more beautiful. As for me, I don't know yet which is, for they are both so wonderful. At any rate, if the wild cherry doesn't throw some of its stones at the doll's house and break the window glass, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the pillow slide.

POEMS That LIVE

THE MASTERPIECE

Life is a beautiful poem,
Its rhythm a-tune with the spheres;
Its length—who knows the beginning?—
As long as the numberless years.

Its rhythm, its rhythm, and its measure
As flowing as the essence of fluid;
Its structure—to those who can see it—
Is molded and grounded in good.

Its heroes are you and all others,
Its conflict is man with his soul,
Until when the last verse is ended,
The poem stands perfect and whole.

This masterpiece who could have written—
None kin to the dust and the sod—
Resplendent with love and with beauty?
The Author and Maker is God.
—W. Layton Stanton.

DELIA, AN ODE

Fair the face of orient day,
Fair the tints of op'ning rose;
But fairer still my Delia dawns,
More lovely far her beauty shows.

Sweet the lark's wild warbled lay,
Sweet the tinkling rill to hear;
But, Delia, more delightful still,
Steal thine accents on mine ear.

The flower-enamor'd busy bee

10 Years Ago Today

From Evening News Files

The boys of the Glendale High school are much exercised over the order which went forth the latter part of last week that eleven athletes, when appearing on the field or outside the building for athletic work, must be dressed in a jersey with sleeves one-quarter length and trunks to the knees.

On October 3, 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., will be given a reception to the school teachers of Glendale at the home of Mrs. R. W. Meeker at 300 East Sixth street

The executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon club consists of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president; Mrs. E. D. Goode, vice-president; Mrs. Shropshire, treasurer; Mrs. Grosvenor, secretary; Mrs. Helen Campbell, Mrs. W. E. Evans and Mrs. Usilton, directors.

Two cases of prostration from the heat were reported yesterday, both being very severe.

We weave a web of forgetfulness around our memories when reminded of misdeeds.

The rosy banquet loves to sip;
Sweet the streamlet's limped lapse
To the sun-browned Arab's lip.

But, Delia, on thy balmy lips
Let me, no vagrant insect, rove;
O let me steal one liquid kiss,
For oh! my soul's parched with love.

—Robert Burns.
